Hello Honorable Celtibero Clan,

It saddens me to tell you that one of your celtibero member dishonored me by quitting a game that he was losing.

This saturday, I played against Celtibero Marq, and as he was about to lose, he disconnected and quit the game without giving me the winning and the points.

I am ready to accept this coming from noobs and total war unprofessionals but very surprised coming from such an honorable clan such as yours.

It is not respectful to quit when you are facing another clan member.

This in no way tarnishes our relations, but as Daimyo and ambassador of the Royal Dragons, I hope this will not go unpunished.

Cordially,

Dragon - De Duroc

I understand that he might have had an emergency. but and emergency right at the end of the game!!??

He should have conceded defeat instead of disconnecting his internet.

Hi,

do you have a screenshot or the replay of that battle?

Hello Cid,

First, I would not have come if that was not the case. What you be my purpose?

Then Annibal says that Celtibero Marq had an emergency, which proves that he left the game. So why didn't he concede.

Finally, I do have a screenshot of me obtaining no points at the end of the game. It did not allow me to get a replay. Will post it later

A understandable but weird question Cid. Why would I come to your forum and say such things. Would make no sense.

Hello Duroc.

Annibal, does not belong to the clan Celtiberos. Their views are not those of the clan.

We are looking at your complaint, please a little patience.

Saludos.

Saludos,

CeltiberoMarq didn't quit, just got dropped.

Please don't make this matter more important that it is.

We've apologize for this. So what do you want more?.

Our behavior in the community and on-line battles during the past 11 years, since today,has been intachable. You should not doubt what we have explained to u and btw you should show more respect for our castle / clan.

So, sorry, this matter is closed.

You dare tell me that I am lying. That Marq "got dropped" at the last minute of the game when all his units were routing.

You apologize but yet you tell me that he got dropped but did not quit. You guys are something.

I feel I'm talking to politicians. You guys are not lying you are just not telling the truth. 🤖🤖🤖

As you can see on my first message, I showed the outmost respect for you clan. I am just telling you the truth, and sometimes (as I can see) the truth hurts.

Greetings,

We will not waste a minute more on this topic.

Marq didn't quit just dropped. I have apologized and that's it.

Topic closed.

A word of advice: It would better that you talk to Mark first, instead of accusing him in public in our castle.
